ROADS AND HORSES

Overruling Dr. Robinson (S.C.) Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee of the Alberta Legislature, who had by letter refused to conduct an investigation in alleged extravagances and irregularities in connection with roads built under the Public Works Department, the Premier and the Minister have agreed that an investigation should be held. When, if ever, it will get under way remains to be seen. What we cannot understand is the political indiscretion of Dr. Robinson (and others) in giving the opposition members an inkling that such an investigation would not be agreed upon and even welcomed. The attitude adopted, rightly or wrongly, only leaves the impression that there really might be something which should not be known, and only sows seeds of suspicion in minds which otherwise might have been quieted.

We are aware that anyone with the money and the inclination would likely travel north, south east or west, in search of a good race horse to bring into Alberta to line the owner's pockets, or deplete his bank account as the case may be. The thought that it might be necessary to import horses all the way from Ontario or from any other province to work on the roads is really alarming. Has the supply of Alberta bred work horses really fallen so short that importation was necessary or advisable? We wonder what is the real reason that any ork horses in this day and age were ever brought from and other Province into Alberta for. Someday we may know the answer.

MRS. GOSTICK SPEAKS AGAIN

One of the many troubles of the present administration is its apparent inability to curb the volatility of certain of its supporters in the House and particularly the lady member from Calgary, Mrs. Gostick.

At Big Valley this lady is reported to have said that "the entire civil service is antagonistic and should be cleaned out. I am sure that we shall never have social credit established until we get the whole civil service dismissed and their places taken by social creditors."

Again in connection with the Low Budget which is admittedly purely orthodox in character, Mrs. Gostick opines that "she is prepared to support the budget, because if an orthodox budget were not approved at this time, the people of Alberta would be faced with orthodox for years to come."

The first of these remarks, while understandable, is pure tripe, and the latter mere drivel.

WHY HE COULDN'T PAY

The following famous letter from a debtor explaining to his creditors why he could not pay up is again going the rounds:

"In reply to your recent request to send cheque I wish to inform you that the present shattered condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to take your request seriously."

"My present financial condition" is due to dominion laws, liquor laws, provincial laws, municipal laws, corporation laws, by-laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws, and outlaws, all of which have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public.

"Through these laws I am compelled to pay a business tax, amusement tax, sales tax, gas tax, school and wafer tax, tulo tax and syn-tax."

"In addition to these initiating taxes, I am forced by the strong arm of the law to get a permit for this thing and that thing. I am required to get a business license, a town license, a provincial license, a sign license, a motor license, a dog license, a radio license, a liquor license, not to mention a marriage license."

"For my own safety I am required to carry life insurance, liability insurance, fire insurance, burglary insurance, property damage insurance, compensation insurance, collision insurance, hail insurance and business insurance."

"The government has now so governed my business that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it! I am inspected, expected, introspected, suspected, disrespected, examined, and re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded and compelled, until now I know that I am supposed to provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race."

"Simply because I refuse to donate to each and all and go out and beg, borrow or steal money to give away, I am cursed, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to and lied about, 'helped up' and down and robbed until I am nearly ruined."

FACILITIES

With a good school capably staffed, three first class tennis courts, a presentable race track, three jumping pits, a polo, vaulting pit and equipment, a clean, sanitary swimming hole, baseball and skating facilities, a golf course of a kind, and a Scout troop, what more could a boy want, unless it be no school and more parties.

IRISH ASK FOR NATIONAL DIVIDEND

Discussing the projected new Irish Constitution, the Free State Social Credit Bureau called for issue of a national dividend. The Bureau passed a resolution saying if the Constitution was to have a real significance for the people the government must "re-examine its rightful prerogative of supreme control of the national credit" and "issue a national dividend to all as a recognition to the right of every individual to a share in the wealth and resources of the nation."

THE STATESHIP OF LIFE INSURANCE

From the standpoint of individual life insurance is the finest, wisest and safest investment that a man can make. It gives him security, a greater respect, a higher reserve of character. It centers upon him what the world needs today—a sense of individual human responsibility. In those black, bitter years when fortunes and savings were swept away, life insurance was the one mooring—the one sure anchor that held—for hundreds of thousands of families.

I am in favor of it gives a man an estate; because it purchases security, increases confidence, fear, and establishes credit. More than that, and from a national standpoint, it is a check and balance against periods of inflated prosperity and of extreme depression. But I am in favor of life insurance.

For one other reason—to my mind the greatest reason of all. I am in favor of life insurance because it is the greatest factor in our national life today in the creation of a sense of individual responsibility. That, to my mind, is the one step of responsibility in the individual himself. One of the great needs of our time. The old idea of thrift, the old notion of our fathers that a man must make his own way, that he was responsible for himself and his family, that he must depend upon his own power, his own foresight and his own courage—these things have begun to give way to leaning towards paternalism, towards a tendency to have the State or the government do for us what we would be prepared to do for ourselves.

That is why we are turning to such things as old age pensions, to state control of this and that; that is why we have talk of state old age insurance, talk of scores of other things.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

PATTERN PICTURES

As exposure of 1/100 second at f.8 on chrome type of film caught this water pattern.

NATURE has a mysterious way of creating patterns, designs. She seems to shun plainness as much as she abhors a vacuum. Consider that every cell that is the substance of matter is fashioned in some kind of pattern. The snowflake has a pattern. Liquid crystals in patterns. The wind arranges snow drifts in patterns as it does the sand on dunes and deserts. The tide goes out and leaves the sea bottom rippled with designs. Gale water disturbed makes rhythmic designs on its surface. Shadow makes patterns. Leafy boughs against the sky makes on the rocks, tiger skins, wings of birds—what is there everywhere with some kind of pattern? Nature is full of them, evidence of a meaning purpose to maintain rhythm, beauty and order in the universe. Man imitates them, consciously or unconsciously, in the structure he builds, the materials he fabricates and the order in which he places things. Have you ever thought of patterns, nature's and man's, as subjects for a camera? Lobby? Home cam?

Artists have made prize pictures of patterns. It's a way to achieve new pleasure from the world about you. It requires, first, skill in seeing patterns. There are so common that only the exceptionally obvious ones, like those in sea sand, are likely to be noticed by a person not looking for them. These we call curious, but once you get through a skyscraper in the course of construction or go down to the waterfront and study the patterns that the masts and rigging of ships make against the sky. Watch for shadow designs made by ordinary objects, such as a picket fence or a carwheel. These are the kinds that only the purposeful observer can catch. With a camera, patterns are everywhere. Plump a stone into a pool or spill a box of matches on the table and you have one made to order for you. Do patterns fascinate with your camera. Taking such pictures challenges your photographic skill and you will find that both your vision and your mind will be enriched thereby.

the responsibility for which, in as the divagative society, should fall upon the individual, and upon his own shoulders. Life insurance does make for the personal responsibility of the individual. It makes for self-dependence, independence, self-respect and self-reliance. It gives to the individual a stake in the community, a stake in his own country and in the world. It constitutes itself into one of the greatest of all bulwarks against communism, socialism and all other evils.

I want to stress what life insurance means for the state. Last year in 1936, life insurance companies paid out to Canadians in death benefits, annuities, dividends and other benefits the colossal sum of $159,000,000. Add that sum to the payments made through the years of $113,000,000 paid out in Canada by life insurance companies since 1929; this taking no account of millions in loans secured by policyholders during periods of stress.

We hear of what governments have done to fight the depression; to steady the people over difficulty; to steady the national morale. Yet not all that our governments—federal, provincial, municipal—have paid out in relief checks, or begins to equal, the tremendous sums paid out by our life insurance companies. What it means and at this time, to the national well-being, to the encouragement and steadiness of the national heart, can hardly be over-estimated. In a word, life insurance, as an institution, has stood during these years as one of the mightiest factors for good in our national life; a pillar of the state; a buttress of our capitalist civilization; a challenge in itself to all enemies of individualism.

Receipts from an address by Gratian O'Leary, Editor, Ottawa Journal, at the annual meeting of Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association.

LOST, A LAKE!

"We've lost our lake!" was the unusual complaint of the boys of a new Scout Troop at Tillsonburg following the recent flood that part of western Ontario. The bursting of a dam had swept away their training water, Lake Lazar.

SCOUTS A HELP IN UNIFYING CANADA

"By organizing Scout Troops in remote places, it seems to me we are doing one more fruitful service for the Dominion. We are one of the forces which make for the unification of Canada—which, as much as any other organization, contributes to the growth of national spirit."—His Excellency, Lord Tweedsmuir.

We need to do away with ultra vires and ultra vires decisions in regard to Dominion elections: legislation.—Stephen Leacock.

YOUR LITTLE SAVINGS... FINANCE MORTGAGE LOANS

TENS of thousands of Canadian farms and homes benefit from first mortgage loans made possible by the accumulated savings of Life Insurance policyholders.

For every borrower, there are six thrifty people who supply the necessary funds.

This fact affords a striking illustration of the "double duty" performed by Life Insurance dollars. Not only do they ensure financial security for the men, women and children of Canada, but they also help to build and finance their farms and homes.

Life Insurance companies exercise the greatest care in the selection of properties upon which mortgage loans are made. To safeguard the savings of policyholders, security of principal and interest is and must always be the first consideration.

HEALTH

CONQUEST OF TYPHOID FEVER

Typoid fever is a preventable disease. Its history in this and other countries shows that it can be stamped out. As typhoid fever is an epidemic disease, its average duration being eight weeks, the elimination of typhoid would be a great economic saving.

How can the disease be prevented?

1. By the use of pure water, pasteurized milk from well managed dairies and the use of clean food.

2. By vaccination of yourself and the members of your family against typhoid.

3. By having all cases reported at once to the health authorities so that necessary steps against the infection of others may be taken.

4. By the immediate disinfection and removal of the discharges of persons ill of typhoid and their disposal in such a way that they cannot infect food or other water.

5. By keeping flies away from the food.

6. By fresh young daughter had just been selected as one of the representatives of her school at the coronation. Her father, wise to the value of prevention, was on his way to the health department where he would find him. He was seeking a supply of typhoid vaccine to have administered to his daughter before she began her journey. Such a vaccination ordinarily protects the individual against the disease for two or three years. As it is made from dead typhoid germs, it is harmless and a valuable measure of prevention.

Typoid fever was rarer in the Canadian forces during the World War than in the civil population at home because the soldiers were vaccinated against the infection.

The discharge from a typhoid patient, if not carefully disposed of may reach the local water supply and carry the disease to users of the water.

Milk may be infected from a similar source; flies can carry the germs to one's food. Certain people apparently quite well, carry the germs of typhoid fever in their intestines or urinary tract for a long time and many cases of the fever occur through the unwashed hands of such persons. Such are called "typhoid carriers" and should be under the supervision of health officers for in the capacity of cooks, waiters, and the like they form a distinct menace to the public health.

CATTLE REQUIRE SPRING MEDICINE

The lack of mineral, and especially the lack of phosphate in Canadian farm crops, has become more and more apparent in recent years. Some districts are no longer capable of growing crops with sufficient phosphate to meet live-stock needs in any season, and in season of drought, when the mineral content of all crops is lowered, phosphate deficiency becomes serious, says R. M. Rowan, B. Sc., and authority on salt, and will show itself in areas not usually subject thereto. Ontario and the Western Provinces have extensive areas with a shortage of phosphate, and no province has escaped the effects of phosphate deficiency.

Lack of calcium and phosphorus may show up in many ways. Most common in young animals is the development of rickets and in mature stock it is found that bone brittleness, depressed appetite, stiffness, general debility and thriftlessness, failure to breed, are all partly traceable to lack of these essential minerals.

Diseases due to lack of phosphate, which go under the various names of osteomalacia, astrophosphorus or plain "stiffness", are essentially winter conditions, which develop slowly, reach their peak in the late spring, and then disappear for the summer, while the animals are on pasture.

Dairy cows are the first to show the effects of mineral deficiency, because they have a relatively high need. A good cow, giving about 10,000 lb. milk per year, needs nearly 40 pounds of calcium and phosphorus for milk production only. For her own maintenance and for the growth of her calf during the period of gestation, she requires another 20 pounds or a total of 60 pounds per year.

This is her actual bodily need. Under winter feeding conditions she has melted butter. Arrange crumbs and oysters in alternate layers, season each layer with salt and pepper. Add the oyster liquor and bake 25 to 30 minutes in quick oven.
